Börsig GmbH is a family business that has been operating as an electronic distributor for premium manufacturers of electromechanical components since 1969. We trade with connectors, relays, switches, cables, tools, plastic articles as well as electrical components and are active worldwide. Our offer is completed by our own cable assembly. Due to our high stock availability and delivery reliability we are able to guarantee short delivery times.

We also sell outside packaging units and without minimum order value. We offer individual stocking to customers who have a long-term contract with us. Our premium manufacturers are long-term partners who trust in the consulting competence of our team. Our colleagues are experts in their field, provide our customers with comprehensive advice and work with them to select the best components for their product.

Our sales markets are diverse - from miniature switches for hearing aids and other medical devices to large connectors in railroad technology. Our goal is to satisfy our customers with everything we do. Therefore, the quality of our services has the highest priority. Every employee of Börsig GmbH is part of the continuous improvement process.
