Force Majeure Notification COVID-19

Dear Madam or Sir,

From now on we expect significant negative impacts on our Supply Chain due to COVID-19.

The World Health Organization's (WHO) has declared the COVID-19 outbreak as a pandemic on 11th March 2020 which affects the whole world.

The enlarged travel restrictions for certain countries, the shut-down of borders and whole cities have created unanticipated labor and material shortages throughout the continent. In addition to the impact this virus is having on domestic shipments within the EMEA region, major global airlines have announced the cancellation of flights, which may impact supply chains in other regions. Due to these actions combined with the other negative consequences attendant with this situation we anticipate shipments in and out of EMEA will continue to be impacted or delayed.

As a result, TE Connectivity and its affiliates ("TE") do not see any other option than to declare Force Majeure under the applicable agreements with your company and its affiliates.

Please be assured that TE is paying close attention to the events transpiring around the world and is being sensitive to the needs of our employees, customers, and suppliers throughout the world.
